THE AUTHOR

Author, Speaker, Corporate Trainer Jamie is an Australian, born from a small country town in the hills just back from the ocean, in the foothills below Mt Warning an ancient volcanic core. At age 18 he died from a freak accident, returning from coma to life Jamie observed human behavior from a new perspective and went on a personal discovery around the world of what makes us do what we do, and why. While professionally becoming an entertainer, an international stunt actor and instructor working in many countries creating shows and training for Universal Studios, Warner Bros Movie World, White Knight Productions, Gold Coast Screen Academy and many others. Jamie had the opportunity to engage in developing his natural ability of improvisation skills, while experiencing many different cultures, beliefs and personal development programs. Seeing the positive power of personal thoughts and laughter for groups, companies and individuals, led Jamie to combining the power of Fun and Personal Development with Improv for Impact. Jamie who regularly emcees large events is seen as a top customer engagement expert, communication and mindset specialists and shares insights to his audiences for their immediate success.
